Susanna⁴ Litchfield (Nicholas,³ Josiah,² *Lawrence*¹) was born, probably, in Scituate, but the exact date is not at hand. It was in 1717, according to Deane and Morse. Baptized Sept. 4, 1720. Married in Scituate, May 20, 1742 (int. Apr. 9), to Job Clapp (or Clap),* as his first wife. She died before 1758.

Job Clap had a negro servant, named "Cuffee" (or "Coffee,") according to this record among the intentions of marriage in one of the Town books: "Cuffe negro Servt of mr Job Clap to Ruth Raff [Indian] both of Scituate January ye 11th 1755." They were m. Dec. 29, 1755 (First Church Rec.).

^{*} He was b. Scit., Nov. 6, 1712, bapt. Scit., May 31, 1713, son of Joseph³ Clap. The Clapp Gen., p. 113, says that Job Clapp m. Temperance —, and had a dau. Sarah, b. June 4, 1759. But according to Scit. town records, the Sarah, b. June 4, 1759, was dau. of Job and Penelope Clap. According to the Hatch Gen. (Descendants of William¹ of Scit.), Penelope, b. abt. 1736, was dau. Isaac³ Hatch (Walter² William¹) and Penelope Ewell (dau. Gershom, see footnote on Ewells, p. 141).

Job Clap m. July 20, 1758, Penelope Hatch. Scituate town records: Intentions, "Mr Job Clap of Scituate to Mrs Penelopie Hatch of Pembrook March ye 25th 1758;" "Sarah Clap Daughter of Job Clap & Penelopie his wife was Born June ye 4th 1759." From First Parish Rec.: "Penelope wife of Job Clap renew Covt & joined with her husband in giving their daugt Sarah in Baptism 26 Augt 1759." This Sarah Clap m. Nov. 25, 1779, Cornelius Barnes of Hingham, where she d. Dec. 4, 1786, act. 27. (See Hist. Hingham, vol. ii., p. 26.) From a study of these data, it follows that if Susanna's Litchfield was wife of this Job Clap, she was his first wife and d. before 1758. The maiden name of Temperance —, given as wife of Job, has not been learned. If the above premises are true, then Temperance was third wife of Job. But according to the will of Job Clapp he left a widow, Zilpher (Stetson), to whom intentions of marriage are recorded at Scituate, May 5, 1764. She was therefore his fourth wife, if Temperance is to be considered as one of his wives, a doubtful assumption. Sarah, b. 1759, was, quite surely, his only child. From Scituate Second Church records, it is learned that there was a Stephen Clap who had a wife Temperance. They were members of the church

They probably had no children. Susannah4 received £500 from her father's estate (see will, p. 93).

The Scituate First Parish records contain the following:

Job Clap admitted to Com. [Communion] 4 aug 1745 Susanna wife of Job Clap [admitted to Communion] 4 aug 1745

Job Clapp died between Jan. 24, 1781, date of his will, and Mch. 16, 1781, when it was probated. He left his property in equal shares to his wife, Zilpher, and to his daughter, Sarah Barnes, both of whom served as executors. The will was witnessed by Benjamin Clap, James Briggs, Jr., and Augustus Clap, who also appraised the estate. "Corneales" Barnes was cited in to appear at the hearing appointing executors and proving will. Will recorded at Plymouth Probate Registry, vol. xxviii: p. 43.

In the Plymouth Registry of Deeds, Job Clapp* is named as grantor, to the following: Benjamin Clapp, 1750 and 1767; Stephen Chittenden, 1752; Elisha Merritt, 1748; and Israel Vinal, 1750. As grantee, from the following: Joseph Clapp; Benjamin Clapp (twice); Israel Vinal; Stephen Chittenden; Elizabeth Nichols; Isaac Chittenden; and Isaac Stetson. There is no mention of a wife of Job Clapp in these deeds.

Isaac4 Litchfield (Nicholas, 3 Josiah, 2 Lawrence1) was born in 1719, according to Deane, and probably in Scituate, where he was baptized, Sept. 4, 1720.

Isaac4 was a wealthy man for those days, and it is said by a granddaughter that his children were brought up in an aris-

Elijah (under 16), dau. Hannah Jenkins and grandson, Thomas Jenkins. (Plym.

Prob. Rec. vol. xx: p. 390.)

^{*}The will of Joseph³ (Samuel,² Thomas¹) Clapp, father of Job,⁴ dated Nov. 14, 1740, probated Mch. 7, 1747, mentions the following heirs, — sons, Joseph, Samuel, Benjamin, Job, Elisha and Jacob; daughters, Mary Hodges, Abigail Clapp, Ann Woodworth and Sarah White. Land was given to Job⁴ which corresponds with land described in Job's estate. (Plym. Prob. Rec., vol. xi: p. 26.)

Job⁴ had a brother, Joseph,⁴ Jr., whose wife was Sarah Perkins. Joseph's will, dated Mch. 1, 1768, probated July 24, 1770, names wife Sarah, executrix, son Ellijah (under 16), dan. Hannah Lenkins and grandson. Thomas Jenkins. (Plym.)

tocratic manner. He was a farmer, a large landholder (see will of Nicholas,³ pp. 92–95), and somewhat of a speculator. He was a soldier in the French and Indian wars and probably in the Revolution (see appendix). He lived on the "Cowing place" in Scituate, later the homestead of his son, Stephen,⁵ and now near Egypt station.

At town meeting, Oct. 9, 1751, allowed "to Isaac Litchfield being ye foot of his acce, £3-11-2." On Oct. 1, 1759, the town "Voted the Grammer School to be Keept ye Following Year one Half at ye School house near ye Southerly meeting House & ye other ½ Year as near Isaac Litchfield, as a House may be had without any charge to said Town."

His first marriage was to his first cousin, Lydia⁵ Cowing. This occurred in Scituate, Sept. 8, 1743 (int. Aug. 6). She was the daughter, bapt. Scituate, May 5, 1728, of Israel⁴ and Lydia (Balch) Cowing (see Family No. 15). She died at Scituate, Aug. 22, 1756, and is buried in Groveland Cemetery, where her headstone reads as follows: "Here Lyes the Body of Mrs Lydia Lechfield Wife of Mr Isaac Lechfield Who Died August the .22. 1756." The footstone is marked: "Mrs Lydia Lechfield."

The second wife of Isaac⁴ Litchfield was Hannah Hersey, born May 1, 1729 (Milton records), daughter of Caleb and Hannah (Stodder) Hersey.*

Intentions of marriage were filed at Scituate: "Mr. Isaac Litchfield & Mrs.† Hannah Herey of Scituate, Jan. 7, 1758." They were married at Scituate, Feb. 22, 1758. She died at Scituate, Aug. 20, 1798, and is buried probably near the first wife.

Isaac⁴ died in Scituate, Dec. 11, 1800, and is buried probably beside his wives.

^{} Miss Sarah R. Damon of No. Scituate has traced their ancestry as follows: Caleb Hersey—son of John³ (wife, Elizabeth), son of William² (wife, Rebecca Chubuck, dau. of Thomas and Alice), son of William¹ and Elizabeth Hersey. Hannah* Stodder was the dau. of Stephen³ (wife, Hannah Canterbury, dau. of Cornelius and Anna), son of Samuel² (wife, Elizabeth Gill, dau. of Thomas Gill and Hannah Otis), son of John¹ and Anna Stodder. (See History of Hingham.) † Used as a term of respect, very commonly, at this time.

The births of the children of Isaac⁴ Litchfield, with the exception of Stephen,⁵ are not found on the town records of Scituate, but they were all, probably, born there. The dates of birth, in the appended list, have been obtained from private family records or are judged to be approximately right, reckoning from the dates of baptism and marriage. The order is, therefore, only conjectural, but it is certain that the six children, baptised, as shown above, were of Isaac's second marriage. Probably the rest were of his first marriage, and are so considered and placed. Mary,⁵ Hannah,⁵ Desire,⁵ Abner Hersey,⁵ Caleb,⁵ Simeon,⁵ and Stephen⁵ are mentioned in Isaac's will; also children of Isaac,⁵ Jr., and Barnabas,⁵ deceased.

JOHN⁴ LITCHFIELD (Nicholas, Josiah, Lawrence) was, without doubt, born in Scituate, in 1720 or 1721. Baptized in Scituate, Sept. 24, 1721. Died in Brooklyn, Ct., Jan. 20, 1785, aged 64 years gehn litelfield

[Endorsement on deed, 1761.]

From a study of the will (pp. 92-95) and the Windham County deeds (pp. 82-83) of Nicholas³ Litchfield, we learn that John⁴ and brother Israel,4 came into possession of 480 acres of land in Canterbury, Ct., in 1750, which Nicholas3 had obtained by deed, in 1703, from Maj. James Fitch of Plainfield, Ct. The tract, in 1703, was a square mile in area, but Nicholas3 sold in 1706, one quarter of this tract to John Pierce, of which, in 1720, Jonathan Pierce (who had acquired the rights of John Pierce) took, by a division deed, the northern half, leaving Nicholas³ with the southern part. This land was on "Tatnick" (variously spelled) It is possible that Nicholas³ possessed other small tracts in Canterbury. One of these is mentioned in a deed at the top of page 83.

Morse's Litchfield Genealogy says: "John removed to Ct., about 1743, and settled on Tatnock Hill, I mile (air line) southwest of Brooklyn Court House, then a part of Canterbury. . . . He seems to have been an able and respected farmer and citizen." Also, "Israel, settled near his brother John, on Tatnock mountain in Brooklyn, Ct., on an extensive farm, from which may be had one of the most extensive and beautiful prospects in New England." Morse is correct except in the matter of the date, "1743." From a study of the deeds of John and Israel Litchfield, we learn that neither of these brothers "settled" on the Connecticut property until 1750, probably soon after the probate of their father's will. They were there in October, 1750, as citizens. It is highly probable that John* preceded his brother, Israel,4 by a few weeks. John4 had bought land there in January, 1749-50.

James⁶ Litchfield (Daniel,⁵ John,⁴ Nicholas,³ etc.), who died in Detroit, Mich., in 1898, wrote a short though imperfect sketch* of the Descendants of Lawrence Litchfield, and in it he devoted considerable space to John⁴ Litchfield and his family. The following abstract is given place here, not because of the historical, but for the traditional value of the narration:

John and Israel Litchfield, sons of Nicholas, on or about the year 1743, neither of them being then married, thought to leave their native place and make for themselves a new home in the colony of Connecticut. According to tradition† they left the home of their fathers on horseback to seek one at some point in Eastern Connecticut. The roads they took led them through a country not much settled; no bridges over the streams; the roads were mere trails through an almost unbroken wilderness. After many days of trial and privation they found themselves on the east bank of the Quinebaug River, in Eastern Conn., at a point where the city [sic] of Danielsonville [Danielson] now is. Here they made a halt and found but few settlers in all the region round about. Here too they found a tribe of Indians whose home was along the valley of the Quinebaug River, a tribe who yet claimed ownership to large tracts of land at the west from the river. Here the two brothers exchanged their two horses which they had brought from Scituate for a large tract of land at the west of that place in the centre of which is a high hill which was then known, and has ever since been known, by the name of Tatnuck Hill, deriving its name, it is said, from an Indian chief, who now at this date made his headquarters here for himself and tribe. This part of the story is legend, not history.

About two miles west of the Quinebaug where the brothers made their first stopping place there had been a settlement removed, and a building started by pioneers who had preceded them. This settlement was known at that time as the Mort Lake settlement, named after a place in England from which some of the settlers came. To the south-west of this settlement was that high hill known as Tatnuck Hill, about two miles distant. It was on the top of this hill that the brothers made their future home; here they built for themselves each a house from the chestnut trees they found there. In process of time the settlement then known as Mort Lake* was changed to the name of Brooklyn, and is now known by that name, which for many years has been the county seat of Windham County. On the north-westerly part of this hill, Israel built his first house;† while on the east side of the same hill is where John built his house,—which was of chestnut logs, with only one room about 16 feet square; the same is still in existence but it has of late years been so built around with new additions that the old one is not now visible.‡

John Baker (Samuel,² Nicholas¹), an own cousin of Nicholas³ Litchfield, married Anna Annable (Samuel,² Anthony¹), and lived in Windham County, Ct. It was, perhaps, through his persuasions or representations, that Nicholas³ got interested in Connecticut lands and became a landholder there.

This part of Connecticut was sparsely settled until 1726, when Windham County was incorporated. Of the towns composing it, Pomfret was named in 1713 (incorporation uncertain), Plainfield was incorporated in 1699, Woodstock, in 1690 (by Mass. achusetts), Canterbury (taken from Plainfield), in Oct., 1703, Brooklyn (taken from Pomfret and Canterbury), in May, 1786; Hampton (taken from Windham, Pomfret, Brooklyn, Canterbury and Mansfield), in 1786. It was not until about the time of the settlement of John⁴ and Israel⁴ Litchfield in Canterbury, in that part now called Brooklyn, that the region became populous and important.

^{*}See Trumbull's Hist. Conn., vol. ii: p. 90, footnote. Capt. John Blackwell, one of the owners of this land, is supposed to have named it for Mortlake, in Surrey, England.

[†] This house was still standing in June, 1898, when it was visited by the compiler, in company with a great-great-great-grandson of Israel, viz., Edward Hubert Litchfield of Brooklyn, N. Y.; the latter procured a very good picture of the house with a small camera. Of course the house has been modernized, but it is still a good example of xviiith century N. E. architecture. It is not owned now by any descendants of Israel. It was occupied by Justin Chase in 1901 and is a part of the estate of Edward Button of Brooklyn, Ct.

[†] Mr. Litchfield is wrong in his last statement, for in June, 1898, when the compiler with others visited Tatnuck Hill and was taken through this old house, the old framework of the house was clearly visible in many places; the beams running through the middle of the ceiling are certainly the ones which were originally hewed from the chestnut trees, by John⁴ or those who helped him. The house has been modernized in many particulars, but is still occupied by Litchfields, viz., Frank² and Alice⁷ Litchfield (great-grand-children of John⁴) and their widowed mother.

Miss Ellen D. Larned,* in her History of Windham County, vol. ii: page 3, says: "Brooklyn society was increasing in strength and numbers. Ebenezer Witter of Preston, John and Israel Litchfield, James and Thomas Eldredge, William and Nehemiah Prince, Stephen Baker, Rufus Herrick and Andrew Lester had become its residents. The original settlers were represented by many thriving families. A remodeling of school districts, in 1762, shows the distribution of inhabitants." There were seven of these districts. District No. 6 contained the following: "John Litchfield, Israel Litchfield, Darius Cady, James Darbe, Sr., and Jr., Samuel and Eleazer Darbe, Nathan Kimball, Benjamin Shepard, Nehemiah Cady, Caleb Spalding, Daniel, Nahum, John, Henry and Benjamin Cady." On page 250: In a "true list of the Polls and Ratable Estates of the Town of Brooklyn for August the 20th, A. D. 1788," appear the names of Eleazer, John, Israel, and Uriah Litchfield. On page 252: "Daniel Tyler, Jun., the Williamses, Scarboroughs, Litchfields, and other leading families, had fine farms under good cultivation."

On the Canterbury Town Records, John Lichfield is mentioned, Dec. 2, 1771, and Dec. 6, 1773, as highway surveyor in several districts. In volume xi of these records, his "ear mark" is described as "one half penny under right ear and a hollow crop."

The following deeds of John⁴ and Israel⁴ Litchfield (see also deeds of Family No. 37) are recorded in the Land Records of the town of Canterbury, Ct., where they may be found at the Town Clerk's.

The original Inventory accepted March 1st. A. D. 1785 and here truly recorded.

Test Anthony Bradford Clerk Probate.

On Feb. 7, 1786, the administrators reported the debts and costs of administration to be £140: 8s.: 10d., which deducted from the personal estate left a balance of £17 to be divided, of which, on Apr. 8th, widow Lucy received one-third, -£5:13s.:4d. She also received one-third of the real estate. The remaining two-thirds of all the property was divided between the nine children* by the distributors, Daniel Frost, Stephen Butt, and Joseph Davison, whose action was accepted by the court, May 2, 1786. On this date, too, Daniels Litchfield, then twelve years old, selected his brother, John, 5 for his guardian.

On the records of the Congregational Church, Brooklyn, Ct., are found the marriage and joining to the church of John⁴ and his wife, the former occurring July 17, 1750, and the latter, Aug. 26, 1753. All their children (except John,⁵ Jr., and Lucy,⁵—at least, not recorded) were baptized as follows: Susannah,⁵ Aug. 26, 1753; Sarah,⁵ Mch. 17, 1754; Anna,⁵ in 1755 (date indistinct); Eleazer,⁵ Oct. 23, 1757; Bridget,⁵ July 24, 1763; Uriah,⁵ Aug. 3, 1766; and Daniel,⁵ Sept. 19, 1773.

THOMAS⁴ LITCHFIELD (Nicholas,³ Josiah,² *Lawrence*¹) was born in Scituate (probably), the last of December, 1722, or the first of January, 1722–23. Died in Scituate, Mch. 5, 1803, aged eighty years and two months.* Baptized, July 14, 1723. Resided, Scituate (Egypt).

He was an active man in the town and church affairs of Scituate. He attended and held pews in the First church (see baptisms and will). On Mch. 3, 1761, he was elected a "precinct assessor." On May 25, 1761, Dea. Thomas Peirce, Dea. Jonathan Merritt, Ensign Otis, Joseph Bailey and Thomas⁴ Litchfield were appointed a Committee to treat with Rev. Shearjashub Bourne regarding his resignation as pastor (Mr. Bourne was dismissed Aug. 6, 1761). At a legal meeting of the First Precinct in Scituate, Mch. 21, 1763, Gideon Vinall, Joseph Otis and Thomas⁴ Lichfield were chosen assessors, with a salary of sixteen shillings apiece, — not a very "fat" office to hold.

From 1765 to 1776, he served almost continually as constable, a very important office in those days, and again in 1782, 1783, 1784. In 1781, 1782, 1784, 1791–2, he was collector of taxes. In 1783, 1787, 1793, highway surveyor. In 1783, he was paid $\pounds 4$: 19s., for building "North Pound," in 1764.

Thomas⁴ Litchfield was undoubtedly a Revolutionary soldier, but no record of his services is found in Massachusetts State

^{} From his gravestone, also a family record belonging to Miss Hattie Curtis, Egypt, Mass., and one in possession of Horace D. Litchfield, Cambridgeport, Mass. The Scituate town clerk's record is: "Feb. 7, 1803," which is an error.

Archives. It is a family belief. Moreover, Hurd's Hist. of Plymouth County, p. 417, says: "On the expedition to Bristol, R. I., Mch. 1777, the company of Capt. Hayward Peirce was called out of Col. John Cushing's regiment, and served about fifteen days." On the pay-roll (as given by Hurd) for this service, appear the names of forty-one Scituate men and among them, Thomas Litchfield.* There was no other Thomas Litchfield of Scituate at that time. At Scituate Town meeting, Nov. 21, 1777, it was "Voted to Chuse a Committee of five viz Thos Litchfield Eli Curtis Hawke Cushing Joseph Benson & Elisha Foster in order for Supplying the families of ye Continantal Soldiers agreeable to a Late act of the General Court for that purpose." The name of Seth Merritt was added, but on Dec. 8th, both he and Thomas⁴ Litchfield resigned.

Thomas⁴ married in Scituate (town and family records), Apr. 11, 1751 (int. Jan 26, 1750-1), Lydia Cole, born in Scituate, Sept. 20, 1733, bapt. May 5, 1734, eldest child of David† and Sarah (Balch) Cole. She died in Scituate, Feb. 17, 1814, aged † David Cole was a blacksmith of Scituate. His will, dated, May 3, 1760, was probated the same month (Plym. Prob. Rec.). The legatees were: Wife, Sarah; sons, William and David, Jr., who were executors; dau. Elizabeth; dau. Abigail;

Apr. 25, 1736; David, bapt. Oct. 23, 1737; Elizabeth, bapt. Feb. 10, 1739–40; and Lydia, May 5, 1734 (as above). (First Church Rec.)

Ambrose Cole was the father of David Cole, Sr. Deane's Scituate, pp. 238-9, Ambrose Cole was the lattict of David Cole, St. Deane's Schuace, pp. 23-36, says: "Ambrose Cole purchased lands of Capt. Stephen Otis, in the Conihassett, 1695. His house stood on the Cohasset road, forty rods southeast of lound brook bridge, on the northeast of the way." This was near Gannett's Corner, North Scituate. There were numerous early New England immigrants by the name of Cole, and there were in Scituate earlier Coles than Ambrose, but to what family he belonged, has not been ascertained by the compiler. He was married twice. By first wife, Silence —, he had, b. Scit.: William, Sept. 1, 1693; Ambrose, Jr., Feb. 1, 1695-6, m. 1721, Elizabeth Lincoln, d. Also my clock; my will also is that my two sons Ward and Roland find her a sufficiency of Wood brought to her door and fitted for the fire; so long as she remains my widow.

Item. As I have been at very considerable expense in educating my son Paul in giving him a liberal education and must consider that as the principal part of his portion in order to do justice to my other children; my will is to bequeath to him only ten dollars, to be paid him by my three sons Ward, Roland, and David, in one year after my wife's decease.

Item. I give and bequeath to my three sons Ward, Roland and David, all my wearing apparel, to be divided between them equally immediately after my decease.

Item. I give and bequeath to my son Roland, my Dwelling House in which I now live, with such reservations as I have made, and such as I shall make in this my last will and testament respecting the same, to him his heirs and assigns.

Item. I give and bequeath to my son David, fifty five acres of land, lying in the Wood, being part of the Tilden place so called; the Eastwardly part of said land including a barn which now stands thereon, to him his heirs and assigns.

Item. I give to my son David the one half of a field which lyeth on farm neck so called; also a piece of Cedar Swamp formerly belonging to the Tilden place, to him his heirs and assigns.

Item. I give to my son son David a piece of Salt Marsh near Horse Island so called, and a piece of salt marsh adjoining Hoopole Neck so called, known by the name of the Cowing Meadow; to him his heirs and assigns.

Item. I give and bequeath to my daughter Elizabeth Jenkins, fifty dollars to be paid her by my three sons Ward, Roland and David in one year after my wife's decease.

Item. I give and bequeath to my daughter Lydia Vinal fifty dollars, to be paid her by my three sons Ward, Roland and David in one year after my wife's decease. But if my daughter Lydia should die without issue, my will then is to bequeath to her only one dollar to be paid her by my three sons aforesaid in one year after my wife's decease.

Item. I give and bequeath to my daughter Sarah Vinal fifty dollars, to be paid her by my three sons Ward, Roland and David in one year after my wife's decease; but if my daughter Sarah should die without issue, my will is to bequeath to her only one dollar, to be paid her by my three sons aforesaid in one year after my wife's decease.

I give and bequeath to my daughter Ruth Litchfield fifty Item. dollars to be paid her by my two sons Ward and Roland in one year after my wife's decease. I also give to my daughter Ruth all my indoor household stuff after the decease of her mother. My will also is that my executors hereafter named, then give her one good cow, and keep the cow, or some other for her use summer and winter so long as she remains unmarried. I also give unto my daughter Ruth, fifty weight of good beef, thirty weight of good pork, six bushels of Indian Corn and three bushels of Rye yearly so long as she lives unmarried, to be paid her by my executors hereafter named; my meaning is that the beef, pork, corn and rye be paid her yearly after the decease of her mother; I also give to my daughter Ruth the improvement of my Westerly front room and bedroom, with a privilege in the kitchen, cellar, oven, well &c., so long as may be convenient for her to live comfortably in the house after the decease of my wife, also a privilege in the orchard for apples for her own use. Also a privilege of a seat in one of my Pews in the Meeting house; my will also is that my executors hereafter named find her a sufficiency of wood brought to her door and fitted for the fire so long as she remains unmarried. And in case the above gifts should be deficient for her comfortable support, my will then is that my executors hereafter named, furnish her with such further necessaries as she may need.

Item. I give and bequeath to my daughter Abigail Curtis fifty dollars to be paid her by my three sons Ward, Roland and David in one year after my wife's decease.

Item. Lastly, I do hereby appoint and constitute my two sons Ward and Roland to be the executors of this my last will and testament, written on four sides of a sheet of paper the day and year above mentioned.

Signed, sealed published and declared by the said Thomas Litchfield to be his last will and testament in presence of,

Probably Lydia⁵ and Abigail⁵ were baptized, but there was a failure to make a record in the church book.

There is an old manuscript in the possession of a descendant* of Thomas⁴ Litchfield, which gives his children, their births, and deaths of several in the family, which is probably a copy of the original record kept by Thomas⁴ Litchfield, with additions made to 1833 by some of his children. The quotations in the list of the children of Thomas,⁴ given below, are from this manuscript, as are, also, the following deaths:

ISRAEL⁴ LITCHFIELD (Nicholas,³ Josiah,² *Lawrence*¹) was born in Scituate; Deane says his birth-year was "1714," but this date appears too carly. From the dates of his baptism and marriage, it seems more probable that he was born after Thomas⁴ (1722–3), and before or in, 1728. "Israel ye Son of Nicolas Litchfield was baptised 2 June 1728" (Scituate 1st Parish Rec.).

[From deed — 1753.]

Israel Litchfield

The story of his removal and settlement in Canterbury, Ct., is told in the account of his brother, John⁴ (Family No. 35). Morse says: "Israel settled near his brother John, on Tatnock mountain in Brooklyn, Ct., on an extensive farm, from which may be had one of the most extensive and beautiful prospects in New England." This statement is certainly true.

The town records of Canterbury contain few references to Israel⁴ Litchfield. Under date of Dec. 5, 1763, he is named as highway surveyor, and again in October, 1777. In vol. xi, the "carmark" of his cattle, etc., is described as a "square crop."

It would appear from the following entry in the Scituate town records, that, while living in Connecticut, Israel⁴ Litchfield owned property in Scituate, for which he was taxed:

Scituate town meeting, Oct. 18, 1768, "allowed to William Cole Constable what Israel Litchfield and Elijah Man was Rated in his Bills in ye year 1765 Provence Town and County [taxes]—." This is too early an entry to refer to Dea. Israel⁵ Litchfield (Family No. 60).

Israel⁴ did not remove to Canterbury, Ct., until the very last of 1750, or 1751, as is shown in the "Intentions" of his marriage and the deed, dated Oct. 22, 1750, in Family No. 35. These two records of over a year apart declare Israel⁴ to be in the one, "of Scituate," in Nov., 1751, and in the other "of Canterbury," in Oct., 1750, —a discrepancy probably arising from some clerical error.

DEEDS OF ISRAEL LITCHFIELD.

The following deeds are recorded at the town clerk's office in Canterbury, Ct. See also deeds of Family No. 35:

[Book 3: p. 609.]

Jan. 12, 1810. Mortgage Deed of Mark Litchfield to Israel Litchfield for $1200. Witnesses: John Parish and Luther Litchfield. Estate containing 75 A. lying partly in Brooklyn and partly in Canterbury. "I the subscriber hereby consent to the within conveyance being given to Israel Litchfield within mentioned as overseer of the said Israel. Jan. 12th 1810. Samuel Butts." [Book 3: p. 610.]

Israel⁴ Litchfield was married twice. His first wife was Penelope Burdin (or Burden). The date or place of their marriage has not been found, and the only authentic source of information regarding this woman is found in the following entry, taken from the Scituate town clerk's records: "Intentions of marriage of Israel Litchfield of Scituate and Penelopah Burdin of Providence Nov. 26, 1751." Her Christian name appears but once on the Canterbury, Ct., records, and that in the entry of birth of their daughter, Betsey ("Betty"). Diligent search of the records at Providence, R. I., has failed to reveal anything regarding her parentage or family connections. Morse's Litchfield Genealogy says, "He [Israel] m. 1751, Penelope Burdin," and nothing more. It is thought by some that Penelope was of the Hanover or Marshfield family of Bardins, but there seems to be no proof. Her name may have been: Borden,* Barden, Burden, Burditt

^{}In connection with the family name of Borden, the compiler has found a Penelope who may fit this case. In the back part of Fowler's Historical Sketch of Fall River (1841), there is a Borden chart, giving descendants of John' Borden (son of Richard, who came to America in 1635 and settled in Portsmouth, R. L., one of the earliest settlers and purchasers of land in Portsmouth, R. I. He had a son, Joseph, who had a son, Stephen, whose wife was Penelope Read (John, John, John, John, John, Hannah, Lusannah, Stephen, Jr., and Penelope. Did the last named marry Israel Litchfield? Hattie Borden Weld, Los Angeles, Cal., compiler and publisher of the Borden Genealogy (1899) omits this Penelope in her book, and in a letter from her, in 1901, states that she has been unable to fix upon the parentage of Israel Litchfield's wife. She says that either Penelope din to belong to the Richard Borden stock or her name was omitted from the registers. The Bordens of Fall River, Scituate, and of Providence, were mostly or Burdet. Town clerks were often very careless in their entries, and even the interested parties themselves did not know, in many instances, how a name should be spelled. There was a great deal of intercourse, commercial and social, between the people of Windham County, Ct., and Providence, R. I., and it is very probable that Israel⁴ had met Penelope in the latter place while there on business. Perhaps Penelope was only a temporary resident of Providence. No known record of her death, which must have occurred in or before 1766.

The second wife of Israel⁴ Litchfield was Phebe Holt. Their marriage is recorded in the town and church record books of Canterbury, Ct., and occurred Jan. 14, 1766.†

In connection with the entries on the Brooklyn Congregational Church book of the baptisms of the children of Israel⁴ Litchfield, referred to later, occurs the statement that "Phebe came from Windham," which probably means that she belonged to Windham, Ct.,‡ church, but in this book there are no church admissions or taking of covenant in the name of Israel or Phebe.

Quakers, whose vital records have been quite faithfully made and kept. In addition to the data from the Borden chart, it is stated in the Reed-Read Genealogy (1861) that John Read, brother of Penelope Read, named above, had, by wife, Sarah Burden (or Borden), a daughter, Penelope. Peck & Earl's Sketch of Fall River, pp. 224–243, gives some of the descendants of Richard Borden, and in naming the children of Stephen and Penelope (Read) Borden, omits Penelope and substitutes Merivah.

It is possible that Penelope Burden ("Burdin") was a widow; if such were the case, perhaps she was Stephen Borden's widow.

^{*}There were Bardens (Borden or Bardon) in Brooklyn, Ct., in 1779. (Congregational church records). The will of a Joseph Burden of Plainfield, Ct., dated 1793, names among others, a son, Israel, and a daughter Phebe (Windham Co. Probate records, at Central Village, Ct.). There was a Thomas Barden in Scituate, in 1726 (Mass. State Archives). A George Burdin came in the Abigail, in 1635. In the index to the probate records of the Municipal Court of the City of Providence, R. I., besides the name, Borden, there are the following: Burdon, Burden, Bordett, Burdett, Barden, Bardean, Bardeen and Bardine. Investigation has failed to discover a Penelope to fit the known data. Scituate records and Deane's Scituate give data concerning Henry Burditt (Burdit) and some of his descendants, but there appears to be no Penelope among them. Perhaps she was of Middleboro. In 1660, William Burden of Concord, but residing in Duxbury, whose wife was Deborah Barker (daughter John) gave a receipt to Abraham Blush (see vol. ii, Plymouth County Wills and Inventories). Swift's Barnstable Families, p. 66, has reference to this family of Burden (Barden, Borden, etc.).

[†] On the Hampton, Ct., Church records, their marriage is entered thus: "Aron Litchfield of Canterbury was married to Phebe Holt of Hampton by Rev Sam' Mosley — Jan 14 1766." A clerical error.

[‡] In this connection it would be well to state that this Windham church is identical with the Hampton church. At the time, 1723, of the organization of the

Some have contended that Phebe Holt was vidov of Nathaniel Holt, and that her maiden name was Phebe Canada, to whom Nathaniel Holt was married, Dec. 16, 1756 (Hampton, Ct., church records). They had two children. But in no record, so far found, of the marriage of Israel⁴ Litchfield and Phebe Holt, is the latter called a vidov, and there is no mention of her children by a former marriage in the Litchfield family records.

The Holt Genealogy (1861) states positively that Phebe Holt, who married Israel⁴ Litchfield was daughter of Capt. Joshua and Keturah (Holt) Holt, and was born in Windham, Ct., Aug. 16, 1734,* and in the non-appearance of documentary evidence to the contrary, the compiler states it as his belief that the Holt Genealogy is correct. She was baptized on Aug. 24, 1734 (Hampton church records).

The records of the deaths of Israel⁴ Litchfield and his wife, Phebe, have not been found, nor any account of the settlement of their estates except as is implied in the deeds above. It is quite certain that both were living in 1810, but they may have died soon after, as Mark,⁵ who took care of them, left for New Congregational church in Hampton, the building stood in Windham Village, or Canada Society church, or that part of Windham taken off to form Hampton (Lucy Hall Greenlaw). Hampton was not incorporated until 1786, being made up from parts of the towns of Windham, Pomfret, Brooklyn, Canterbury and Mansfield.

The other children of Capt. Joshua Holt were: Dinah, b. Mch. 17, 1726, m. Timothy Pearl, Jr., 1746; Joshua, Jr., b. Mch. 19, 1728, m. twice; and Keturah, b. Nov. 22, 1729, d. 1758, perhaps m., 1750, John Pearl, all in Windham, Ct. Keturah, wife of Capt. Joshua, was the daughter, b. 1691, of Henry and Sarah Holt, and so his first cousin, as Henry Holt was brother of Nicholas Holt, Jr., father of Capt. Joshua. Henry and Nicholas were two of the eight children of Nicholas Holt, Sr., of Andover, who was brother of William Holt of New Haven, Ct. (Holt Genealogy. 1864.) See "Genealogical Guide to the Early Settlers of America," in Spirit of 76.

^{*}Chester Goodale Dalzell, South Egremont, Mass., has been trying to prove that Phebe Holt, born Aug. 16, 1734, married in Pomfret, Ct., Feb. 13, 1755, Ebenezer Goodale (or Goodell), Jr., his ancestor. Ebenezer Goodell had at least twelve children by this marriage, and died Sept. 1, 1794. His widow, Phebe, died Feb. 7, 1808. Mr. Dalzell writes (1902): "If Goodell married the above Phebe, he would have been marrying a woman of about his own age, that is twenty-two years, a very common age for marrying in those days. If Litchfield married the above Phebe, he would have been marrying a woman about thirty-two years of age, which was a good many years for young women to wait then." He contends that Israel Litchfield's wife was widow of Nathaniel Holt. Again, the absence of any proof other than that of circumstantial evidence, does not invalidate the authority of the Holt Genealogy. It is to be borne in mind that Phebe Holt was the second wife of Israel Litchfield and that he was about thirty-eight years old at the time of their marriage.

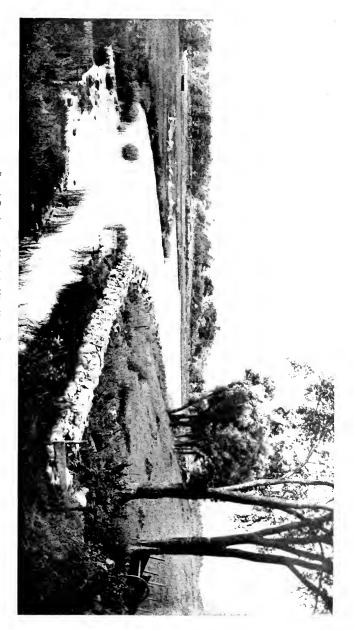

York State about that time. Either they removed with him to his new home, or the home of one of their other children, in New York, and died there, or they died and lie buried in Brooklyn, Ct. Their graves, if in Brooklyn, were evidently not marked by inscribed stones. There are no Litchfield vital records in Booneville, N. Y., whither Mark⁵ is said to have emigrated.

On the Canterbury, Ct., town records (quite incomplete) appear the births of only four of the children of Israel⁴ Litchfield, by either of his marriages. These are: "Betty," Mark, Leonard, and Penelope, as indicated below. On the records of the Brooklyn (Ct.) Congregational church, however, we find the baptisms of the four children of the second marriage, as follows: Mark, Mch. 27, 1768; Leonard, Feb. 2, 1772; Penelope, Apr. 21, 1775; Esther, Apr. 12, 1778.

Of Israel's children,* it is quite certain that James,⁵ David,⁵ Leonard⁵ and Penelope⁵ removed to New York before 1800, and Mark⁵ about 1810. It is not known that any of the descendants of Israel⁴ Litchfield resided in Connecticut later than 1810, most of them having settled or are now living in New York, Ohio, and Indiana. The descendants of Samuel and Betsey⁵ (Litchfield) Adams are very numerous. Of their twelve children, four were born in Canterbury, Ct., and the others in Putney, Vt. David's descendants have brought much distinction to the family, Hon. Edward Hubbard⁸ Litchfield of Brooklyn, N. Y., being one of his great-grandsons.

The order of arrangement in the following list of children is based on a study of the administration papers of the estate of Elisha⁵ Litchfield, and on known dates of birth, baptism and marriage, and yet there are probably several errors in the suppositions. Much more light is desired on the children of the fifth generation.

^{*} Israel Litchfield had a daughter by Olive Cady, whose name was Tryphena ("Trypheney"), born Dec. 18, 1751 (Canterbury town records). See Appendix. A Litchfield "Tree" gives the following as the children of Israel Litchfield: Rebecca, Elisha, Eleazer, Desire and Elizabeth. Of these names, no authority has been found elsewhere for four, and hence the compiler does not credit Family No. 37, with them.

JUDITH BRIGGS, daughter of Joseph Briggs, Jr., and Judith³ Litchfield (Josiah,² Lawrence) was born in Scituate. "Judeth daughter of Joseph Briggs Jun^r and Judeth his wife was born May 20th 1725" (town record). "Judith daug^t of Joseph Briggs Jun was baptiz^d I May 1726" (First Parish rec.). She was admitted to church communion, July 4, 1742. By the will of her father (1747), she received one-half of his real estate and one-third of his personal property, the value of which was large for those days. Judith⁴ became owner of the old Briggs homestead, still standing near North Scituate beach, but somewhat modernized and enlarged, known as the "Collier house" (see picture, opposite page 98). The present owner of this house is Larra W. Sumner of Canton, Mass.

In a paper* read before the Col. Thomas Lothrop Chapter, D. A. R., June 17, 1899, while there was a gathering of this Society in the old Collier house, Mr. E. P. Collier of Cohasset, who was then the owner, said:

A greater difference can hardly be imagined than that existing between the Farm Neck of 250 years ago, when Walter Briggs purchased his farm, and the Farm Neck of to-day. Then the land was purchased for the sake of wringing from it a precarious livelihood, and brought about an average price of $3 per acre. To-day the land in this vicinity is purchased for purposes of pleasure, and brings a price of which the early settlers would never have dreamed. What would Walter Briggs have thought of the purchase of ten acres of his farm to furnish our frivolous summer residents with golf, tennis and baseball grounds? Two hundred and fifty years ago, the inhabitant of this region sat in his living room at night, which was lighted by a home-made tallow dip and warmed by an open fireplace, and the only sound which broke the silence of the solitude was the scream of wolves in the uncleared forest. To-night some of the buildings on Farm Neck will be lighted by a force only known two hundred and fifty years ago by its manifestations in the tempest, and the sounds which now strike the ear at night perchance are the whistle of the distant locomotive or the hoarse note of the ocean steamer. In 1651 appears in the Conihasset records of the date of January 9th, a deed from Timothy Hatherly to Walter Briggst of Scituate, farmer, of the former's farm, known as Musquashituck or Conihasset farm, consisting of house, barn, outbuildings and 300 acres of land, the consideration being £200. Now the harbor formed by the jutting out into the sea of the Glades Point, and known as Musquashituck Harbor and Strawberry Cove, became known as Briggs' Harbor, a name which it retains to-day.

^{*}This quite lengthy paper was printed as a whole in a Hingham newspaper, soon after it was read. The parts omitted above relate more directly to Walter Briggs and his immediate descendants. Quotations will be found later in the treatment of William Collier's descendants.

[†] See footnote on Walter Briggs, page 66. It will be noted that Mr. Collier, in this paper, agrees with the compiler, that Joseph Briggs, father of Judith, 4 was son of Lieut. James, and not son of Ensign Cornelius (as Deane has it). See footnote, p. 97.

The house which Hatherly deeded to Briggs is described as lying west of Musquashituck Pond, so that it could not have been the one now standing on the cliff, for that one is situated north of the pond. It is probable that Briggs, soon after he came into possession of his new purchase, built the house now standing on the cliff, and known as the old Collier house. Whether the meeting* of the commission to settle the boundary between Scituate and Cohasset was held in the old or the new house can probably never be known. Certain it is that Walter Briggs left by will dated 1676, two houses or homesteads, one of which is now standing.

A few years ago, Azro Turner of Scituate, while ploughing in his field west of Musquashituck Pond, uncovered a hearth made of square English bricks. Here was undoubtedly the site of the Hatherly house built in 1637. A few rods to the east of this spot, near the shore of the pond, stands an old pear tree, which has grown out of the roots of a tree of still greater age. The fact that this tree stands where no orchard has been within the memory of the oldest inhabitant, together with its great age, marks it as the last vestige of that orchard which Hatherly mentions in his deed to Briggs in 1651. To me it is a very fascinating subject of thought, this farm on the shore 250 years ago.

The children of Walter Briggs were John, James, Hannah Winslow, and Cornelius. To Capt. John and Lieut. James, he appears to have left his real estate in Scituate, which contained, besides the 300 acres, 84 acres granted to him by the town. This latter was not divided until after 1750. The two sons allowed the farm to remain undivided during their lifetime, and it was not until after their death that John, the son of Capt. John, and Joseph, the son of Lieut. James, in 1708, made an actual division of the 300 acres, which had remained undivided since 1651. But this division was not for long, for John evidently was not of bucolic disposition and sold his share of the paternal acres back to his cousin Joseph, and removed to Boston, and when we next hear of him he is spoken of as John Briggs, Gentleman, while his cousin Joseph is still named Joseph Briggs, yeoman.

On page 294 of this same history, a William Collier appears as private in the Roll of Capt. Obediah Beal's company, which marched from Cohasset to Dorchester, Mch. 4, 1776. He is probably identical with William who married Judith⁴ Briggs.

^{*}Hist, of Cohasset (1898), p. 133: "The house of Walter Briggs, where they [Commissioners] met upon Nov. 18, 1656, was built four years before, and is still standing with its huge oak timbers at North Scituate beach. It is owned by our fellow townsman, E. Pomeroy Collier, a descendant of Walter Briggs, and is used with its modern addition as a summer residence. The streams of human change for two hundred and forty years have flowed by that house, leaving it to bear witness of the first proprietor of that region, as well as of the bone of contention [boundary between Scituate and Cohasset] which lay in sight of it towards Cohasset Harbor, a mile to the west."

This Joseph had three children: Mary, who married a Cudworth; Hannah, who married a Clap; and Judith. Either because Judith was single at the time of making his will in 1747, or because she was his favorite daughter, Joseph left to her one-half of his real estate and one-third of his personal property, the real estate including the old Briggs homestead. That same year Joseph Briggs steps off the stage and with him the name of Briggs from our chronicles. The farm is partitioned never to be re-united, and the Joseph Briggs farm becomes a thing of tradition.

The next year (1748) there steps upon the scene William Collier, called of Boston, and captures the maiden Judith and takes her unto himself, also her fertile farm and comfortable homestead. I had taken it for granted that this William Collier was a descendant of the William Collier who lived in Duxbury, a contemporary of Walter Briggs, and a man of great wealth and importance in the colony. But on looking the gentleman up, I discovered that his family consisted entirely of daughters. So I turned my attention to the Massachusetts colony and discovered that this William was probably a descendant of Thomas Collier, one of the early settlers of Hingham.

Many interesting things might be told of the old house and the old farm. Here wreck after wreck has come ashore, and more than once the floor of the old living room has been the bed of shipwrecked sailors stretched out with their toes to the great fireplace, some of them never to wake on earth. This old living room, too, was the scene of the dame school kept by Aunt Mary* and Aunt Ann* Collier. Here in 1851 the lighthouse gale wrought havoc, and the field between Musquashituck Pond and the sea was changed from a fertile melon patch and cornfield into a waste of sand and stubble in a single night.

There are at least two apparently variant records of the marriage of Judith⁴ Briggs to William Collier. Among Boston marriages, it appears: "William Collier & Judith Briggs of Scituate, Jan. 5, 1748" (Report of Boston Rec. Com., No. 28, p. 270). In Scituate: "W^m Collier & Judith Briggs were married 23 M^{ch} 1749" (First Church rec.). The Scituate Town record date is the same as the church record, and William Collier is spoken of as "of Boston" (Deane). The difference of these two dates may be explained in this way, — the first was the date of "intentions," at Boston, and the latter the real date of marriage, at Scituate, which should be expressed thus, — Mch. 23, 1748–9. The "intentions" were recorded at Scituate, Dec. 30, 1748.

William Collier, who, says Deane's Scituate, "had large tracts of land south of the glades," was probably a son of Gershom*

Gershom³ Collier m. Elizabeth —, and had the following ch., b. at Hull: Judith,⁴ b. Nov. 14, 1697; Susanna,⁴ b. Apr. 8, 1700; Mary,⁴ b. Mch. 7, 1703; Thomas,⁴ b. Jan. 27, 1705, m. Apr. 20, 1734, Bridget Southworth (Deane's Scituate, p. 241, says "Bosworth"), and had several ch. in Scituate; Gershom,⁴ Jr., b. Apr. 15, 1708, d. young; Jane,⁴ b. Sept. 10, 1710; Gershom⁴ (again), b. Nov. 7, 1713;

^{*} George L. Davenport, Cohasset, Mass., who has made quite a study of the Collier family, and who is compiling the Genealogies of that town, has contributed the following: The ancestry of William and Thomas Collier (his brother) of Scituate, is probably thus: Thomas,¹ Thomas,² Gershom,² and he relies mostly upon Deane's Scituate, and Hull records, deeds and wills, for his statements. Thomas¹ had land granted him in Hingham, Sept. 18, 1635; wife, Susanna, d. Dec. 10, 1667; as "widow," she had been granted one and one-quarter acres of land, about 1650, in that part of Hingham, now Cohasset; Thomas¹ d. Apr. 6, 1647, aet. 71, his will being dated, "29–3–1647." Thomas¹ and Susanna Collier had the following ch.: Thomas² Jr., b. in Eng. (see below); Moses,² b. in Eng., m. 1st, Nov. 26, 1655, Elizabeth Jones [perhaps dau. Richard and Alice] of Dorchester, m. 2nd, Dec. 17, 1657, Elizabeth Bullard [dau. William] of Dedham [and lived in Woodbridge, N. J.]; and Susan² (or Susanna), named in father's will.

Thomas,² Jr., m. Dec. 30, 1647, Jane, dau. Robert Jones of Hingham, who survived him and d. at Hull, Apr. 1, 1709. Thomas,² Jr., removed to Hull with his family abt. 1657, having had land granted to him there, and d. 1691, act. 69. He was a Freeman in 1663 and known as Lieutenant. His will, dated June 25, 1690, mentions wife, Jane, and five ch., and particularly Benjamin,³ and he gives a double share of his property to that one of his sons who will care for him; he was part owner of Brewster Island in 1662, and held considerable estate in Hull. Children of Thomas,² Jr., and Jane (Jones) Collier: Elizabeth,³ bapt. Hing., Dec. 17, 1648; James,³ bapt. Hing., Apr. 6, 1651; Thomas,³ Jr., bapt. Hing. May 28, 1654, m. and Elizabeth (——) Collier of Hull, where he was born, June 21, 1721. He died in 1794, in Scituate (First Church rec.,—no day or month appears), and his wife, Judith⁴ died in 1793 (First Church rec.).

The first four children of William and Judith Collier were baptized at the First Church, Seituate, as the following taken from the records, show:

Isaac Son of W^m Collier Baptized its mother being in our Communion 4 Nov 1750

Sarah Daug^t of W^m Collier bapti^d 29 oct 1752 Judith Daug^t of W^m Collier baptized 8 Sep^t 1754 Elizabeth Daug^t of W^m Collier baptized 21 Nov 1756

The births of only Isaac,⁵ Judith⁵ and Jonathan⁵ Collier are recorded on the town records of Scituate.

In the settlement of Gershom's estate, 1753, Thomas 4 and William 4 Collier sold out their interest in their father's property to the other heirs, and removed 10 Scituate.

In 1756, 1757 and 1758, he was constable. Mch. 20, 1758: Allowed to "Sam" Lichfield Jun for John Conway & Jabez Hatch Rates for the year 1758, 0-4-2" (First Parish Clerk's records, — 1707-1761). Sam^{II} Lichfield appears on a list of officers commissioned for the Second Regiment of militia in the County of Plymouth, in 1762, with the rank of Ensign, in Capt. Benjamin James's (3rd Scituate) Company, Col. Thomas Clapp's Regiment (Mass. Arch.: Muster Rolls, vol. xcix: p. 45). This was French and Indian war service. Samuel's name appears on the tax-list of Scituate, as late as 1783, but the year of his death is not exactly determined. It was before 1804. There appears to be no town or family record giving the date, and at Plymouth there is no recorded settlement of his estate.

Married at Scituate, by Rev. Shearjashub Bourn, Apr. 1, 1742* (int. Feb. 27, 1741-2), to Priscilla Vinal, born in Scituate, May 18, 1723; baptized Oct. 22, 1727 (First Church), daughter of Jacob, Jr.,† and Elizabeth (Simmons) Vinal of Scituate.

^{*} This is the First Parish record. The town record is: Apr. 1, 1741. † Jacob Vinal, Jr. (according to Deane), was the great-grandson of Widow Anna¹ Vinal, who, with three children, appeared in Scituate in 1636. She was a Conihasset partner, and well-to-do. Her residence was in or near that part of Scituate now called Greenbush. She died in 1664. Her children, all born in England, were: Martha,² b. before 1630, m. Isaac Chittenden, Jr., 1646; Stephen,² b. Dec., 1630, succeeded to his mother's house, and m. Mary, dau. Rev. Nicholas Baker, 1661; and John,2 b. abt. 1634, lived on the corner of Kent street and Meeting house lane (at Scituate Harbor, — see pictures opposite p. 111), and m. 1664, Elizabeth Baker, sister of Mary (also sister of Sarah, wife of Josiah² Litchfield, Family No. 5, — see footnotes, pp. 51-2).

The will of John² Vinal is on file at Plymouth Probate Registry. Dated 1698, it names his wife, sons, John³ and Jacob,³ and dau. Grace.³ Josiah² Lechfild was one of the appraisers of his estate. John² is buried in the First Parish Buryingground, where his gravestone reads: "Here lyes ye body of Mr John Ujnal who dyd Argust 21 day in 1698 aged 62 years." His children were: John, Jr., b. - Ehlor B. Litchfield

1824-1903 Mother of Compiler

She died, probably, in 1804, as the following record of death occurs on the First Church book: "1804, Widow Priscilla Litchfield.'' No recorded settlement of estate in Plymouth.

b. Sept. 30, 1669, d. Nov. 11, 1669; Jacob, b. Sept. 2, 1670, m. Mary Cudworth;

Administration on the estate of John Vinal, Jr., was granted Oct. 10, 1748, to his widow Mary. The inventory, taken Nov. 1, 1748, by Benjamin Curtis, Charles Turner and John James, Jr., amounted to £2289: 19x.: 3d. The real estate consisted of four acres salt meadow, about twelve acres pasture land, and homestead of about thirty acres, with buildings. On May 27, 1751, an account of Mary Woodard, admn'x, was allowed. The partition of the estate of John's Vinal, Jr., was made on Aug. 2, 1765, by Joseph Cushing and Charles Turner, both of Scituate, and David Jacob of Hanover. In this division the widow, Mary Vinal, alias Woodward, was first allowed her dower-rights. The rest of the estate was given to four of the children (John⁴ is not named), viz., Mary, Ezekiel, Elizabeth Bates and Ruth Vinal, in equal shares. These data, together with a study of the will of her father, prove that the wife of John Vinal, Jr., was Mary Woodworth, dau. Thomas and Deborah (Damon) Woodworth. Deane's Scituate omits her family name and gives no clue. The will of Thomas² Woodworth (son of Walter¹), dated Feb. 13, 1718, allowed Mch. 17, 1718/19, names the following: Wife, Deborah; son Hezekiah's children; sons, John and Ebenezer; and daus. Deborah Pincen (wife of Ebenezer), Katharine Danforth, Hannah Jackson, Jerusha Randall, and Mary Vinal (to whom he gave 10 A. Scituate land, near land of William Clift). All these data from Plym. Prob. Registry. Deborah Damon was dau. John't and Katherine (Merritt) Damon (see footnote, p. 63). It is a tradition in this part of the Litchfield family that there is Rogers ancestry, but none has been proven.

Children of John³ and Mary (Woodworth) Vinal: Jacob,⁴ "Jr.," b. Dec. 19, 1691 (see below); Elijah,4 b. Feb. 19, 1694, prob. d. young; Elizabeth,4 b. Apr. 26, 1697, m. — Bates; John, 4 " 3d," b. Sept. 8, 1699, m. Sarah Cudworth; Mary, 4 b. Nov. 13, 1701, m. (prob.) Joseph Hayden, 1723; Ezekiel, b. June 4, 1704, m. Mary Wade, and removed to Maine; Hannah, b. June 11, 1707, m. (prob.) Nathaniel Wade, 1729; Sarah, b. Apr. 28, 1711, prob. d. young; and Ruth4 (named in will). On Jan. 5, 1750, Jacob Vinal, 3d, had been appointed gdn. of Ruth, John, Elizabeth, Ezekiel and Mary, and on June 14, 1765, all the guardianship accounts (except that of John4) were filed by Jacob, 3d, and were allowed by the court at Plymouth.

Jacob⁴ Vinal, Jr., m. Apr. 30, 1716, Elizabeth Simmons (see below), and they had the following children: Elizabeth, b. Aug. 8, 1717, m. (prob.) Jacob Wade, 1736; Jacob, Jr. ("4th"), b. Apr. 15, 1719, m. Lydia Holbrook, 1743; Joseph, b. June 21, 1721, m. Martha Jenkins, 1745; Priscilla,5 m. Samuel4 Litchfield (above), and Mary, b. Jan. 10, 1725, m. (prob.) James Jenkins, 1747.

In the First Parish burying-ground, Scituate, there is a gravestone, marked as follows: "Here lyes ye body of Mrs Mary Umal ye wife to Mr John Umal who dyed July ye 18th d[ay] 1723 (?) in ye 53 year of har age." Can anyone identify her?

Elizabeth Simmons (Symons), b. Aug. 27, 1686 (older than her husband), was dau. of Aaron² and Mary (Woodworth) Simmons (Symons, etc.) of Scituate, and grand-daughter of "Moyses Symonson," who came in the ship Fortune in 1621, and d. 1689.

The Woodworths mentioned in these notes are descendants of Walter Woodworth, freeman in Scituate in 1640, one of whose great-great-great-great-grandsons was Samuel Woodworth, the poet, the author of "The Old Oaken Bucket," the scene of which poem, and the well itself, are in Greenbush (see picture opposite page 141).

after the dismissal of Rev. Shearjashub Bourn, and before the pastorate of Rev. Ebenezer Grosvenor began, the ordinance was not recorded in the church book by the officiating minister. There are two hiatuscs in the baptismal records, viz., from July 13, 1761 (baptism by Mr. Bourn) to Aug. 15, 1762 (baptism by Rev. Mr. Angier of Bridgewater), and from this latter date to May 15, 1763 (baptism by Mr. Grosvenor). The supplying clergymen failed for some reason to make a record of the ordinances they performed.

The Scituate town records have been examined without avail to discover the record of the births of the following children. From the baptismal order, together with some later family records, the approximate or known date of each one's birth is set down. Morse's Litchfield Genealogy gives all the names (but only one Abigail), without dates. Deane's Scituate gives only scattering names of Litchfields beyond the third generation. The failure of Deane to give a greater amount of space in his history to the Litchfield family, large and always important in Scituate, is difficult to explain.

ABIGAIL⁴ LITCHFIELD (Samuel,³ Josiah,² Lawrence¹) was born in Scituate, Feb. 23, 1716–17. Married in Scituate, May 15, 1740 (Second Parish records), to James⁴ Cudworth, Jr., of Scituate. Their "intentions" were filed March 8, 1739-40, and in the entry her name appears as "Abigal."

James⁴ Cudworth, Jr., was the son of James³* and Elizabeth

* James Cudworth, b. Jan., 1682, was son of Jonathan and Sarah (Jackson) Cudworth, and grandson of General ("Major") James Cudworth. The father of James Cudworth was Rev. Ralph Cudworth, D.D., of Cambridge, England, a graduate of Emmanuel College, rector of Aller, Somersetshire, who d. in 1624. Among other children of Rev. Ralph Cudworth, was his famous son, Rev. Ralph Cudworth (Jr.), D. D., of Emmanuel College, who became Master of Christ College, Cambridge, Eng., Chaplain to James I, and author of the so-called "Intellectual System." From the latter connection, he was known as "Intellectual Cudworth" (see any Biographical Dictionary).

The name of the mother of General James' Cudworth is somewhat in doubt, but preponderance of opinion makes her name Mary Machel (or Machell). Among the historical papers in possession of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society, Boston, is a copy of the "Pedigree of the Mali Catuli or Saxon Family of Machell, Lords of Crakenthorpe in Westmoreland, with the Collateral Branches of the Machells of Lincoln, Bucks, Essex, Surrey and London." these papers (perhaps not wholly reliable), it is learned that the maternal grandfather of Gen. James Cudworth was John Machell, a descendant in the 18th generation from Ulf le Machell de Catulino, one of whose sons was Halth le Machel, time of Henry I, about 1100-1135, A. D., who, by wife, Eva, was the ancestor of this family. John Machell was of Tangley, in Surrey, and m. Jane, dau. of Sir Nicholas Woodroofe, Knt.; they had several children, among whom was Mary, nurse of Prince Henry, son of James I; Mary m. 1st, Rev. Ralph Cudworth, Sr.; she m. 2nd, Rev. John Stoughton, D. D., who d. May 4, 1639. In the will of Rev. John Stoughton, 1639, he names his wife Jane, and her father Brown, of Frampton, Dorsetshire. This has led some to believe that Rev. Ralph Cudworth, Sr., had two wives, and that General James Cudworth's mother might have been Jane Brown, dau. and heiress of John Brown, aforesaid. But, if we assume that Rev. John Stoughton was married twice, first to Mary (Machel)

Cudworth, and secondly, to Jane Brown, the mystery is dispelled somewhat. It is known that James' Cudworth, who lived in Scituate, and Rev. Ralph Cudworth, Jr., of England, were brothers, although the former was born in 1605 and the latter in 1617 (see index to a recent volume of the Proceedings of the Society of Colonial Wars). It seems probable that the mother of both was Mary Machel. It is related that, a few years ago, the present Canon Machel of England, an antiquarian of reputation, meeting a descendant of General James Cudworth, at an English country-house, claimed him as "Cousin," by reason of the relationship of General Cudworth to the Machels, discovered as a result of his own investigations.

James¹ Cudworth was at Scituate in 1634; he is called "salter," and "gentleman," on the records; removed to Barnstable but returned after a few years. He stood for a fair dealing toward the Quakers, and met with much opposition on this account from other magistrates. He was Deputy Assistant, and in 1681, Deputy-Governor. In King Philip's war, he was commandant of the forces of the United Colonies, and was, after Winslow, the most important man in Plymouth Colony. He wrote many letters of historical importance; one of these, addressed to Dr. Stoughton of Aldermanbury, Eng., in 1634, describes the state of affairs here; calls Rev. Zechariah Symmes (see footnote, page 1, this Genealogy), consin; refers to his uncles, apparently in New England, one of whom, Thomas, is about to be married; sends messages to his brothers and sisters. He died in 1682, in England, of smallpox, while acting in the capacity of Colonial Agent. In 1657, he had been Commissioner of the United Colonies. The last will and testament of "Major" James Cudworth, dated Sept. 15, 1681, was presented at Court, Nov. 2, 1682. The two witnesses made oath, July 7, 1682. The legatees named are: James, Israel and Jonathan, his three sons; Joannah Jones, his dau.; Israel, Robert (White) Cudworth, and was born in Scituate, Feb. 26, 1714–15, and was baptized "10–6–1718" (First Church records). He died about 1781, as on Apr. 17, 1781 (Plym. Probate Rec.), administration on his estate was granted to his son Zephaniah.⁵ On May 14, 1781, an inventory of his estate, in which he is called "Gentleman," was made; this amounted to £401: 6s.: 8d.

The following is from Plymouth Co. Registry:

June 24, 1796. Deed of division between Zephaniah Cudworth, gentleman; Israel Cudworth, yeoman; Abigail and Rachell Cudworth, single women; Benjamin Holmes, gentleman; and Keziah Holmes, his wife, all of Scituate, of three tracts or parcels of land which came to them as heirs-at-law of their father, James Cudworth.

James and Mary Whetcom (Whitcomb), four children of his dau. Mary (Plym. Col. Rec., vol. iv, Wills, etc., p. 8). The wife of General James Cudworth bore the name of Sarah. Her family name may have been Stoughton, and her father, Rev. Dr. Stoughton, before referred to (see N. E. Hist. Gen. Reg., vol. xiv: p. 101), but many doubt this. They joined the church, Jan. 18, 1634/5.

To Zephaniah, two-sixths; to Israel, Abigail and Rachell, one-sixth each; and Benjamin and Keziah Holmes, one-sixth. First piece: land with dwelling-house, barn and corn-house, lying near the Meeting-house, and where James Cudworth last lived. [This was very probably the present residence of Mrs. Stillman Litchfield, known as the Thorndike place, at Scituate Centre.] Second piece: pasture land on road "just below where the old meeting [house] stood near the widow Mary Otis." Third piece: salt marsh of 4 A., near the crossway going on to "farm neck," near land of Isaac Litchfield and John Cudworth. Witness: Hayward Peirce. Rec. Nov. 27, 1796. [Vol. lxxxi: p. 14.]

Among the deaths of 1794 (without month or day) on the Scituate town records, is that of "Widow Abigail Cudworth." James Cudworth and family lived in Scituate Centre.

SARAH⁴ LITCHFIELD (Samuel,³ Josiah,² Lawrence¹), was born in Scituate, June 5, 1718. According to Second Parish records, she was married at Scituate, Feb. 23, 1737–8 (int. Jan. 14, 1737–8, Scit. town records), by Rev. Nathaniel Eells, to James Nash, born in Scituate, Apr. 2, 1708, bapt. July 28, 1717 (2nd Ch. rec.), son of Joseph‡ and Hannah (Curtis) Nash. James [‡] Joseph Nash, says Deane's Scituate (pages 314–15), was son of Joseph Nash of Boston, where he was born in 1678, "and on coming of age settled in Scituate, at Stoney cove brook (afterward the residence of Dr. Isaac Otis, and of his son, Dr. James Otis)." On Jan. 1, 1700 (Scit. Rec.), Joseph Nash m. Hannah Curtis (prob. b. 1681, dau. was an uncle of Priscilla Nash, who married Nathaniel4 Litchfield (Family No. 46), brother of Sarah.4 In 1768 and 1774 James was appointed guardian for his minor children, viz., James, Jr., Elizabeth, John and Ruth, on account of property which was accruing to them from the estate of their grandfather, Samuel³ Lechfield, deceased. (Plym. Prob. Rec.).

On Oct. 22, 1773, James Nash (Jr.), was appointed admr. on the estate of his father, deceased. Benjamin Jacob and Increase Clapp were sureties on his bond. The amount of the inventory was £355: 11s.: 8d. The real estate consisted of $1\frac{1}{2}$ A. salt marsh, 2½ A. cedar swamp, one-half interest in a grist-mill, and the homestead with buildings thereon. On Nov. 9, 1791, a division of the estate was made; to James Nash, the eldest son, two shares were allowed, and to the following, one share each: John Nash, Sarah Rogers (wife of Joshua Rogers of Chesterfield), Elizabeth Nash, Mary Nash, and Ruth Curtis (wife of Samuel Curtis, 3rd), all children of James Nash, Sr.

The following are from Scituate First Parish records:

Sarah wife of James Nash owned ye Covt & was Baptized 30 July 1738.

(just named) was "son of James Nash, an early settler in Weymouth." Joseph bought a house and lands at Greenfield lane, in Scituate, in 1670, of Walter Hatch, but removed to Boston before 1678. His will, dated May 22, 1732, names wife Hannah, sons Joseph, Jr., David (executors, with mother), Simeon, Elisha and James (bequest of £50), and daus. Hannah Brown, Elizabeth Nash, Mercy Nash, and Mary Nash. It was probated July 13, 1732 (Plym. Prob. Rec.). See account of the families of Brooks, Curtis and Nash in Henry L. Clapp's "Fifty Ancestors" (1902). Compare with Deane.

* First Ch. rec.: "James Nash & Hopestill Agry both of Scit: [married] 23 May 1765." Compare with Hist, of Hingham, vol. ii: p. 211, for her family. She survived her husband, and d. in Scituate in 1812; no settlement of her estate has been found. In 1791, when the final division of James's estate was made, one item in the administrator's account which was allowed, reads: "l'aid to Hopestill Nash being one third of the moveable [personal] estate as per her receipt, £20: 12s.: 11d." Hopestill is again mentioned in the settlement of the estate of her step-daughter, Elizabeth⁵ Nash (Family No. 138).

JUDITH⁴ LITCHFIELD (Samuel,³ Josiah,² Lawrence') was often called "Juda," "Judey," and "Jude." She was probably born in Scituate, as Deane and Morse say, in "1720."

On Dec. 8, 1741 (First Ch. rec.), she was married, at Scituate, to Daniel Damon, "housewright," born in Scituate, Apr. 23, 1716, son of Daniel† and Bathsheba (Sylvester) Damon.

* This was Rev. Ebenezer Gay, who was pastor in Hingham, 1718–1787 (Hist. Hingham, vol. i, part 2: pp. 24 et seq.). At this time, Rev. Shearjashub Bourn, the pastor of Scituate, was suffering from a paralytic affection (see Deane, p. 186).

Daniel³ Damon, bapt. Oct. 23, 1709, as an adult, m. 18t, at Scit., Jan. 3, 1711/12, Bathsheba Sylvester, and had four ch., viz., Hannah,⁴ b. Apr. 24, 1713, m. (prob.) Thomas Faunce, 1732; Daniel,⁴ fr. (see above); Isaac,⁴ b. Sept. 17, 1718; Joseph,⁴ b. Dec. 16, 1720, m. (prob.), Joanna Damon, 1742. Daniel³ Damon m.

pastor of Scituate, was suffering from a paralytic affection (see Deane, p. 186).

† Daniel Dannon, mentioned as a Conihasset partner in 1732, was a son of Zachary² and Martha (Woodworth) Dannon, who resided at Scituate, north of Symons's hill. The ch. of Lieut. Zachary² were: Martha,³ b. July, 1682, m. Edward Jenkins, 1705; John,³ b. June, 1684, m. Elizabeth Oldham; Zachary³ (or Zechariah), Jr., b. June, 1686, m. Mehitable Chittenden, 1711/12; Daniel³ (see below), b. Mch. 1688; Mary, b. Mch. 1690, m. Thomas Tobey (Toby), 1711; Abigail, b. Oct. 1692; Hannah, b. Nov. 1694, m. Elijah Perry, 1722; and Mehetable, b. Feb. 1696, m. Jonathan Merritt, 1728. Lieut. Zachary² Damon was son of John¹ and Katherine (Merritt) Damon (see footnote, p. 63).

Deane says: "Daniel Damon was a man of distinction, often employed in the business of the town, and was also a representative." He was a member of the Legislature of Massachusetts in 1780, and the same year was a special delegate to the Convention which ratified the State Constitution.

Daniel Damon died in 1788, and left a will. His wife survived. Most of the descendants of this family remained in Scituate, but through the sons, Daniel and Samuel, who removed to New Hampshire and Vermont, respectively, there is a wide scattering of this family in New England. See deeds of Family No. 39.

The baptisms, etc., of this family are found upon the records of the Scituate Second parish, now the Unitarian Church in Norwell. Judith, wife of Daniel Damon, was bapt. July 4, 1742; their children were baptized as follows: Daniel, Jr., Aug. 22, 1742; John, July 1, 1744; Bathsheba, May 3, 1748; Simeon, Aug. 30, 1752; and Joshua, May 8, 1757. The births of Daniel, Jr., Joshua, Bathsheba and Abigail, and the baptisms of Samuel and Abigail have not been ascertained. Of the sons, it is quite certain that four served in the Revolution, and possibly all. It will be noted that four of these sons married into the Bowker family, of which Hannah and Eunice were sisters, and Anna and Lucy, sisters, respectively.

Children of Daniel and Judith⁴ (Litchfield) Damon, probably all born at Scituate:

- i. Daniel⁵ Damon, Jr., b. abt. 1742; m. Hannah Bowker, 1761; removed to Westmoreland, N. H.
- 142. ii. John Damon, b. Mch. 26, 1744; m. Eunice Bowker, 1771. Served in Revolution.

HANNAH⁴ LITCHFIELD (Samuel,³ Josiah,² Lawrence¹) was born in Scituate, undoubtedly, although her birth has not been found on the records. Morse and Deane say that it occurred in 1721.

Married, at Scituate (First Ch. rec.), Dec. 24, 1752 (int. Aug. 8th.), to Benjamin Studley of Hanover, son of Eliab* and Mary ^{*&}quot;The first mill erected on Studley Mill Brook, at the place where there is a mill, near the West Hanover R. R. station (1889), of which we have any account, was improved by Eliab Studley, about 1730. It was known as 'Eliab's Mill'" (Briggs's Shipbuilding on North River, pp. 25, 26). Barry's Hist. Hanover (page 393) says that Eliab Studley "was a noted Tavern keeper, his house being a (Briggs) Studley. They resided the larger part of their married life in Hanover, where Benjamin was selectman, 1778–1781 and 1787–1788. He was on the Committee of Correspondence and Safety in 1775 and other years, and served in the Revolution, in the capacity of First Lieutenant.

In 1730, the records of Hanover speak of the forge or iron foundry of Thomas Bardin, as the "old iron works." Before 1740 we find these iron works in the possession of the Josselyns, who had so much trouble with the town in regard to their dam, which prevented the herring from ascending the river (North) to their spawning grounds. There were two brothers, Capt. Joseph (also a deacon) who gave a bell to the Centre church and who was a man of great enterprise, and Deacon Thomas, who gave two communion cups to the First church, and who was a selectman at one time. They were succeeded by Seth, Philip, Isaac and John R. Josselyn, Lemuel Dwelly, Benjamin Studley, and Lemuel Curtis. In 1790, Lemuel Curtis, who lived where Solomon Russell now (1889) resides, sold one quarter of the forge, etc., to his sons, Reuben and Consider Curtis; Philip and Isaac Josselyn had sold out previously. In 1791, Benjamin Studley and John R. Josselyn sold out to Lemuel Curtis. Seth Josselyn disposed of his interest in 1803. . . . In 1839, Lemuel Dwelley sold his half to George Curtis. Thus George Curtis became the sole owner of the "old iron works."

Late in life Benjamin Studley and his wife, Hannah, removed to Leicester, where several of their children had settled. The date of death of neither has been ascertained, but his probably favorite place of public resort." He was the son of Benjamin and Mary (Merritt) Studley (see footnote, page 147). Eliab's wife, Mary Briggs, to whom he was married in 1729, was probably dau. of Joseph and Deborah (Holbrook) Briggs, and born in 1707 (see Deane's Scituate, pp. 225-6). The children of Eliab and Mary (Briggs) Studley, as given by Barry, were: Benjamin (see above), m. Hannah' Litchfield; Martha, m. Jno. Shaw of Abington; Elizabeth, m. Jno. Robinson of Plymouth; James, lost at sea; Thankful, m. 1st, Michael Jackson, 2nd, Seth Keith; Deborah, m. an Erskine; Lucy, m. Seth Stetson; Abigail, m. Thomas Curtis, Jr., 1770; Japhet, b. July 25, 1756, d. 1842, m. Rachel Fearing, 1780, and their dau. Lucy (b. 1788), m. Lewis Litchfield of Hanover, great-great-grandfather of Harry Wheatland Litchfield of North Pembroke, Harvard College, class of 1907; and Joseph, m. Rebecca Stetson, abt. 1764. The death of Eliab's widow, Mary, is thus entered on the church records: "1797, Oct. 16, Widow Studley: Eliab's widow: 90 of old age." This would make her birth-year 1707, as indicated before. Eliab, aged 78, was buried Dec. 13, 1785.

occurred in Leicester, in 1812. He was of Leicester in 1801, when he made his will, in which he calls himself "gentleman." This will, dated Dec. 15, 1801, was filed at the Worcester County Probate office, at Worcester, July 3, 1812, and was probated, July 7, 1812. He makes the following bequests:

To beloved wife, Hannah ("Studly"), "improvement of one third part of all my real estate during the time she does remain my widow."

To eldest son, Eliab, "all my real estate lying in the Town of Hanover also the sum of twenty five pounds to be paid him in two years after my decease."

To son, Benjamin, "all my real estate lying in the Town of Pembroke also the sum of twenty five pounds to be paid him in two years after my decease."

To daughter, Hannah ("Moor"), "twenty pounds to be paid her in two years after my decease." These three legacies to be paid by son, Joseph.

To daughter, Mary ("Studly"), thirty pounds, "also all my house-hold furniture and one Cow to be at her disposal." He gave her all necessary supplies of Indian corn, rye, apples, use and improvement of the west lower room in "my old dwelling-house," "with privileges in cellar, at well and in yard, with fire-wood," "so long as she remains single and unmarried, and no longer."

To daughter, Abigail ("Josselyn"), twenty pounds.

To daughter, Deborah ("Woodworth"), twenty pounds. These last three legacies to be paid by son, Benjamin.

To son, Joseph, "the home & lands he now holds by a partition deed."

The executors were the sons, Joseph and Benjamin; the witnesses, William Henshaw, Jr., Asil (Asahel?) Clark and William Henshaw.

A codicil to this will, dated Dec. 17, 1801, gives to sons, Benjamin and Joseph, all farming utensils and tools and the live stock, and to Joseph, the meat tubs and cider barrels. The residue of the estate was also willed to them. The witnesses to this codicil were: Joseph Denny, Catharine Henshaw and William Henshaw.

The inventory of the estate of Benjamin Studley, taken Dec. 28, 1812, mentions "I Wall pew, $50.00," and "I Note of Hand, $100.00."

The baptisms of the following children of Benjamin Studley are recorded on the Hanover church book: Eliab (with mother) Oct. 13, 1754; Benjamin, June 5, 1757; Abner, June 5, 1757; Hannah, June 1, 1760; Mary, Sept. 2, 1764; James, Sept. 2, 1764; Zenas ("Zenos"), Oct. 7, 1764; Nabby, Aug. 3, 1766.

Children* of Benjamin and Hannah4 (Litchfield) Studley:

- i. ELIAB⁵ ("Elihab") Studley, b. abt. 1753; named as "eldest son" in father's will; m. Betty (Betsey) Stetson of Abington, 1775. Res. Hanover. Served in Revolution.

EXPERIENCE⁴ LITCHFIELD (Samuel,³ Josiah,² Lawrence¹) was probably born in Scituate, in 1723 (Deane). Baptized, Mch. 4, 1749. Served in the Revolution (see appendix), and is reported to have died of injuries received in that conflict, May 1, 1778.

[From Revolutionary Rolls.] Experience Jichfied

^{*}Barry's Hist. Hanover gives an Elizabeth, bapt. Oct. 13, 1754, but this is a confusion with Eliab.

Married in Scituate, Nov. 28, 1754 (int. Mch. 23, 1754), Rhoda Studley,* born in Hingham, Aug. 27, 1735, daughter of Jonathan† and Susanna (Lane) Studley. She survived her husband, and died in Scituate, Dec. 9,‡ 1810, aged 75 years. No settlement of the estate of Experience4 or of his wife has been found.

On the Scituate town records of 1771, 1772 and 1775, "Experince" Litchfield appears as assessed for taxes, but by vote, his "rates" were "allowed" to the constable.

[†] Jonathan Studley was the son of Benjamin and Mary (Merritt) Studley (see footnote, p. 147). His wife, Susanna, to whom he was m. in Hingham, Dec. 31, 1724, was dau. of Ebenezer and Hannah (Hersey) Lane. The Hersey and Lane lines of ancestry may be found by consulting the Hist. REMEMBER⁴ LITCHFIELD (Samuel,³ Josiah,² Lawrence¹) was probably born in Scituate in 1728 (Deane and Morse). Baptized in Scituate, Aug. 14, 1737 (First Church Records). Married, Dec. 15, 1760 (int. Nov. 15), in Scituate, to Solomon Briggs,* of Norton. No further authentic information can be given by the compiler concerning this family. Anyone possessing data will confer a favor by sending same for the Appendix.

M. L. T. Alden contributes the following as taken from the vital records of Attleboro, Mass.: "Solomon, son of Seth and Hannah (Whittaker) Briggs, born May 30, 1737." Seth Briggs of Attleboro and Hannah Whittaker of Rehoboth were married by Rev. David Turner, Jan. 22, 1735-6 (int. Mch. 8, 1734-5). See Rehoboth Records.

^{*} Hist. Hingham, vol. iii: p. 18, says: Joshua⁴ Lincoln (Peter,³ Joshua,² Thomas,¹ "husbandman"), b. in Hing. Feb. 4, 1707–8, m. May 18, 1732, Mary Battles, dau. of Edward and Experience (Pratt) Battles. She was b. in Hing. Apr. 25, 1711, and, surviving him, m. secondly, Feb. 7, 1763, Solomon Briggs of Norton. See also, vol. ii: pp. 51, 93 (note).

If this latter named Solomon Briggs (b. 1737) married Remember⁴ Litchfield, then he was nine years her junior. If, after the death of Remember,⁴ this Solomon married, secondly, Mary (Battles) Lincoln (named above), then Mary was marrying a man twenty-six years younger than herself, when she was already in her fifty-second year. These data would seem to show that either mistakes have occurred in the entries of the different town records, or else that the Solomon Briggs who married Remember⁴ Litchfield is not identical with the Solomon of the Attleboro record or Solomon of the Hingham marriage. No other Solomon has been brought to the notice of the compiler. The Probate Records at Taunton fail to show anything concerning a Solomon Briggs. Norton was the "North Precinct of Taunton," and was established as a town, June 12, 1711.

RUTH⁴ LITCHFIELD (Samuel,³ Josial,² Lawrence¹) was probably born in Scituate in 1730 (Deane and Morse). Her intentions of marriage to Samuel Stodder of Hingham were filed at Scituate, June 21, 1755, and they were married there, Nov. 6, 1755 (First Church Records). This Samuel Stodder is undoubtedly identical with Samuel⁴ Stodder,* born in Hingham, Sept. 22, 1728, son of Joseph^{3†} and Mercy Stodder. They resided in Hingham Second Precinct (now Cohasset). No records have been found in Plymouth Probate Registry.

^{*}See Hist. Hingham, vol. iii: p. 195. The author does not give the family name of the wife of Samuel Stodder. He says: "Our records furnish no further information relating to either parent," i. e., Samuel or Ruth. Samuel had one sister, Abigail, bapt. May 30, 1725; m. Ebenezer Hill of Abington. Joseph³ Stodder was the son of Daniel² and Abigail (Lane) Stodder, and Daniel² was the son of the planter, John.¹ For full information concerning the Stodders, see Hist. Hingham, vol. iii: pp. 191-216, also Pope's Pioneers. The name appears also as Stodar, Stoder, and Stoddar, but more commonly in modern times as Stoddard. Arthur G. Loring, Woburn, Mass., is a student of this family.

[†] Joseph Stodder's will, dated Oct. 12, 1776, and proved (Suffolk Co. Prob. Rec., vol. lxxvi: pp. 522-4) Nov. 28, 1777, does not mention a wife or a son Samuel. He orders his estate to be sold at auction, and after his debts and funeral expenses are paid, to each of his five grandchildren, viz., Jonathan, Joseph, Daniel, Solomon and John Hill, he gives five shillings. If there is a remainder he divides it equally between Elijah Stodder (son of Benjamiu) of Scituate, and the "wife of James Litchfield of Hingham." Besides this will there appears to be no data concerning this family in the deeds or probate records of Suffolk County.

JOSEPH⁵ LITCHFIELD (Josiah, ⁴ Josiah, ³ Josiah, ² Lawrence ¹) was born in Scituate, Jan. 14, 1750–1, * and was baptized there Feb. 4, 1753. He was undoubtedly named for his maternal grandfather, Joseph Hayden.

He died at Kittery, Maine, Jan. 28, 1828,† where he was pastor nearly a half-century.

Kittery town records, vol. iii: p. 4: "Rev. Joseph Litchfield died Jan. 28, 1828 aged 77 years 2 days. Buried Jan. 31. It was thought that [there] were more than 1000 People who attended his funeral sermon on the occation delivered by Rev^d S. Chandler of Eliot. Text, 'I have faught a good fight &c.'"

His place of burial is in a field in the rear of the Methodist church, at Spruce Creek, Kittery, and his gravestone, which stands about eighteen inches high, and thirteen inches wide, with a curiously cut top, bears this inscription: "Sacred to the memory of the Rev Joseph Litchfield who departed this life Jan 28 1828 aged 77 years." No other Litchfield gravestone appears in this field, which belonged to the ancestral estate of the Haleys (see Family No. 52).

There appears to be no record of the settlement of the estate of Rev. Joseph⁵ Litchfield. It would seem, from a study of the deeds on record at Alfred, Me., that he had very little estate to leave, and this was probably distributed to his heirs before his death.

Joseph⁵ Litchfield was graduated from Brown University (then called Rhode Island College), Providence, R. I., in the Class of 1773, the first, so far as found, of the family of Lawrence¹

† Maine Hist. Soc. Coll. and Rec., vol. iii: p. 324: Rev. Joseph Litchfield "died at his dwelling-place, Jan. 28, 1828, aged 78 years." Another record says: He was "buryed on the last day of said month [i. c. Jan. 31]." Morse's Litchfield Genealogy states the year of his death as "1826," which is incorrect.

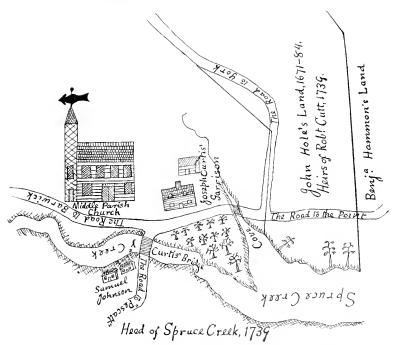

^{*} This birth date appears on the Scituate Town Records. Morse's Litchfield Genealogy gives: Jan. 25, 1751. According to double-dating reckoning, also by the addition of eleven days dropped from the calendar in 1752, this latter date of birth is the more correct, when we consider his recorded age at death.

Litchfield, to receive a college education and academic honors. The college at this time was very small, and but few buildings had been erected. University Hall had been built but not completed in 1773. It is probable that Joseph⁵ Litchfield and his fellow-students roomed and boarded in private houses.

Among the papers* on file in the College Archives is one entitled "A Remonstrance of the Senior Class of Rhode Island College to the respectable the President and the Professor of the same," bearing date Feb. 19, 1773. From this it appears that serious objections had been made to a Commencement for this year, on the ground mainly that the members of the class to graduate were not "orators." This objection was finally overruled, and the anniversary exercises of the College were held as usual. The following account from the diary or journal of the valedictorian, Doctor Solomon Drowne, is kindly furnished us by his grandson, the Rev. Dr. Thomas S. Drowne, of the class of 1845. The author was throughout life an intimate friend of President Manning, and as a physician, attended him in his last sickness. . . .

Wednesday, Sept. 1, 1773. At length the day, the great, the important day, is come. O may it prove propitious. Now we must pass from easy College duties into the busy, bustling scenes of life. At about ten o'clock, the Corporation being assembled, we walk in procession from the College Hall, to the Rev. Mr. Snow's meeting-house, where the President introduces the business of the day by Prayer; after which Nash addresses the assembly in a Latin Salutatory Oration; then follows an English Oration, pronounced by Mr. Foster, upon the Discovery, progressive Settlement, present State and future Greatness of the American Colonies; which is succeeded by a Syllogistic Disputation in Latin (the Theses being previously distributed), "An Voluntati competit Libertas?" wherein Litchfield is the Respondent, and myself, Padelford and Tillinghast, the Opponents. After this, Tillinghast delivers an Oration on Politeness, which finishes the exercises of the forenoon.

The afternoon exercises begin with an English Oration for the Master's degree, upon Civil Liberty, by Mr. Dennis. The degree of A. B. is then conferred on myself, Joseph Litchfield, Jacob Nash, Philip Padelford and Henry H. Tillinghast; and the degree of A. M., on Messrs. John Dennis, Theodore Foster, Samuel Nash and Seth Read; also on Doct. Thomas Eyre, Secretary of the College, and late of Yale College; to which succeeded my Valedictory Oration; and then a most solemn and pathetic charge by the President to our class. The whole is concluded by Prayer. Now our palpitation and anxiety are over. . . . Thus ends a day which has been long expected, but has passed forever.

To this account by Drowne we may add the following from the Providence Gazette:

The young gentlemen performed their respective parts with great propriety, which justly procured them the universal applause of a judicious and candid audience.

The first class to graduate from this college was that of 1769. Joseph⁵ Litchfield probably entered as a freshman that year. It would appear from a history of the college that the only instructor besides President Manning, who taught languages and moral philosophy, was David Howell, LL. D., professor of natural philosophy. Stephen Hopkins, LL. D., of Providence, was chancellor of the college (1764-1785).

Among the fellow-students of Joseph⁵ Litchfield may be named several who became famous men, as follows: Theodore Foster, A. M., U. S. Senator (1790-1803); Rev. Samuel Nash, A. M.; Thomas Arnold, A. M., Chief Justice, R. I. Supreme Court (1809-10); Lieut.-Colonel Samuel Ward, A. M.; Dr. Barnabas Binney, A. M.; John Dorrance, A. M., first librarian of Brown University; Dwight Foster, A. M., U. S. Senator (1800-1803); Elias Penniman, A. M.; Dr. Pardon Bowen, A. M.; and Daniel Gano, a pioneer settler of Kentucky.

Of Joseph⁵ Litchfield's classmates,* Solomon Drowne (from whose diary quotation has been made) became the most distinguished. He was a physician in Providence, and a surgeon in the Continental army, a member of various distinguished societies, and an orator and author of considerable merit. He died in Foster, R. I., in 1834. Henry Hendren Tillinghast, A. M., died in 1795. Philip Padelford, A. M., was a surgeon in the R. I. militia in 1778, and afterwards in the navy; he died in 1815. Of Jacob Nash nothing has been ascertained. Perhaps he was a brother of Rev. Samuel Nash, of the class of 1770.

Joseph⁵ Litchfield is also credited with the degree of Master of Arts (A. M.); * when or how he received it does not appear, but it was no doubt in course, as was then the custom. After graduation from college, Joseph,⁵ although married soon, probably studied theology with some minister either in Scituate or Providence. In 1776, he served as a private in the Revolution (see Appendix).

In 1779, he received a call* to serve as pastor of the Congregational Church in Chesterfield, in the western part of Massachusetts, but this he declined.

In 1780, according to the History of Hanover,† pp. 66, 67, there was a strong effort put forth to secure him as pastor in Hanover. It says:

After the withdrawal of Mr. [Rev. Samuel] Baldwin in 1779, several candidates for the pastorship of the [First Congregational] society were heard, and some time elapsed before a settlement was effected. Rev. Joseph Litchfield, subsequently of York [an error for Kittery], Me., a descendant of Lawrence Litchfield of Barnstable, Mass., was one of these candidates; and a call was given him, with a salary of "£90 per annum, in silver money, at 6s. per dollar, or gold equivalent, or in paper bills at the rate or value the General Court or Assembly shall settle the same, and 12 cords of firewood at his door, within a mile from the meeting-house;" and Dec. 27, 1780, was fixed upon as the day of his ordination; Capt. Joseph Soper to provide entertainment for the Council. The Council met, and, it is said, were in session two or three days; but Mr. L. was not ordained, many of the society being opposed to his settlement. Tradition says that the objections urged against him were of the most trifling character; - one being, that he wore stockings "footed up" with yarn of a different color from that in the "tops;" and this was "beneath the dignity of the clerical office;"-and the second, and perhaps the most frivolous of the two, affirming, that, on a certain occasion, in making a call, instead of entering the yard by the gate, as a clergyman should have done, he "clambered over the rails of the fence, much to the lowering of the dignity of his profession."

We suspect, however, that political or other differences were the real grounds of objection against him. But though not settled when first called, a second attempt was made to effect that object, which resulted as before, in his rejection and withdrawal. Finally, after hearing several other candidates, to some of whom a call was given, a more unanimous request was sent, in 1783, to the Rev. John Mellen, of Sterling, to come and labor among them; and this call was successful. He was settled in Hanover, February 11, 1784....

Joseph⁵ Litchfield was ordained or installed pastor of the Congregational church at Spruce Creek, Kittery, in July, 1782. He was called the "Fisher Parson." The following are abstracts from various books and records concerning this church (now extinct) and its ministers.

Sketches of the Ecclesiastical History of the State of Maine, from the Earliest Settlement to the Present Time. By Jonathan Greenleaf, Pastor of a Church in Wells, 1821, p. 33: Until the year 1750, all the people in the lower part of Kittery toward the sea, attended on the ministry of Mr. [Rev. John] Newmarch. But about the time [1751] Dr. [Benjamin] Stevens was settled, sundry brethren of the Church living at what was called "Spruce Creek," petitioned to be dismissed and formed into a new Church, and being joined by others in the same part of the town, a separation was amicably effected. On the 19th of Sept. 1750, a Church was organized by Rev. Ward Cotton of Hampton [N. H.], and the same day, Rev. Josiah Chace was ordained. Mr. Chace lived twenty-eight years after his ordination, and died suddenly, Dec. 10, 1778. A little religious excitement took place in this parish soon after the great earthquake, in 1755, but the Records of the Church are imperfect, and but little distinct information can be obtained. After the death of Mr. Chace the people were destitute of preaching nearly four years. In July, 1782, Rev. Joseph Litchfield was ordained among them, and is their present [1821] pastor.

Maine Historical Society's Collections and Records, vol. iii: p. 324: Rev. Joseph Litchfield, B. U. 1773, ordained July 10 [?], 1782, was the second settled minister of the Second Parish in Kittery. He was the successor of Rev. Josiah Chase. Though Mr. L. was old-fashioned in his appearance, manners and style of preaching, and formal in his prayers, he was thought to be unquestionably a pious man, and allowed to be an orthodox minister. But his salary was small and his family large; hence, he was under a necessity of doing more secular labor than was consistent with a full discharge of his parochial duties. His useful ministry was, however, continued through the lengthened period of little less than forty years. . . . It is good in support of a minister's usefulness to find that the people of his parish in N. E.,

History of York County, Maine, page 286, in sketch of Kittery, and description of Second Church: After his death [i. e., of Rev. Josiah Chase] the church was destitute of preaching nearly four years when Rev. Joseph Littlefield † was ordained, July, 1782. He remained their minister till about the year 1827, when age and infirmity disqualified him for the pulpit. He was the last minister of this church which lost its existence about this time, — the house burned down, and the field was occupied by another denomination [i. e., the Methodist].

Morse's Litchfield Genealogy (1855): Rev. Joseph Litchfield settled in early life as pastor of the Congl. ch'h at Kittery, Me., with whom he spent his days. He was of the Orthodox faith and is reported to have been an able and much respected clergyman.

Stackpole's Old Kittery and Her Families (1903), p. 194: In 1750 the Middle Parish was separated from the Lower Parish, and the Rev. Josiah Chase became its first ordained minister, 19 Sept. 1750. He was born at Newbury, Mass., 20 Nov. 1713, and graduated at Harvard in 1738. Having attended a wedding, 26 Dec. 1778, he missed his way in a snow storm, fell into the creek near his home and was drowned. His body was recovered the following morning. The Rev. Joseph Litchfield was ordained 3 [?] July, 1782, as the successor of Mr. Chase. He served till 1827, when being enfeebled by age and admiring the zeal and energy of the Methodists, he, with his people, requested the Maine Conference to send them a minister. The Rev. Paschal P. Morrill was sent. Thus Congregationalism at the head of Spruce Creek passed over to Methodism without friction, and a Methodist church has been maintained there ever since. Mr.

† A mistake, of course, for Litchfield. Such errors have been found several times in Maine records, as Littlefield is even a more common name there than Litchfield.

^{*}In this sketch, the statement that Rev. Joseph Litchfield "was probably the brother of Rev. Paul Litchfield, H. U. 1775, who d. at Carlisle, Mass., Nov. 5, 1827, aged 76 years," is, of course, without foundation. They were second cousins. See Family No. 99. Rev. Josiah Chase's grandson, Joshua Chase, m. Litchfield died 28 Jan. 1828. The old church was burned in 1834, and a new one was built the following year. The present church edifice was built in 1879 at a cost of about $2,200. The parsonage was built in 1842.

Methodism in Maine, 1795-1886, edited by Allen & Pilsbury, pub. 1887, pp. 390-1: The history of Methodism in Kittery is in some respects remarkable, affording the first instance in Maine, in which Methodism was welcomed by a minister of the "Standing Order." In July, 1782, Rev. Joseph Littlefield [Litchfield] was ordained pastor of the Congregational Church at Spruce Creek in Kittery. He continued as pastor over forty years. Being then aged and infirm, he requested his parishioners to apply to the Methodist Conference for a young minister to assist him in his work, stating that he was pleased with the doctrine of the Methodists, and "their manner of itinerancy." Accordingly a request was sent to the Conference in 1827, and Rev. Pascal P. Morrill, that year received on trial, was appointed to Eliot, including Kittery, who acted as colleague of Mr. Littlefield [Litchfield] till his death which occurred the next year. During the year, Mr. Morrill organized a class of fourteen members in Kittery, partly from Eliot, and some who had been converted under his ministry. The following are the names of the members of the first class in Kittery, viz.: Gowen Wilson, Nancy Wilson, William W. Fernald.* Waite Fernald,* Mary Cutts, Julia Fernald,* Thomas Mason, Elzira Johnson, Susan Pettigrew, Hannah Caswell, Abigail Peckenrill, Susan Neely, Robert Cutts, Hannah Cutts.

In Fleet's Register† for 1800, Rev. Joseph⁵ Litchfield is named as a member of the "Lower Association on Piscataqua River, partly in New Hampshire and partly in Maine" of Congregational ministers.

On Oct. 11, 1786, Rev. Messrs. Joseph⁵ Litchfield, Joseph Buckminster, Joseph Haven, Benjamin Stevens and eight other pastors, signed a testimonial[‡] from the Association of Ministers recommending Jeremy Belknap, late minister of Dover, "to the service of the churches wherever God in his providence may call him." This was read to the Council which convened Apr. 4, 1787, for the installation of Mr. Belknap in Boston.

William Fogg's Diary,* under date of Sunday, Nov. 5, 1815, says: "Evening at our Meeting house, sermon by Mr. Litchfield of Kittery." Thursday, Nov. 9, 1815, in account of installation of Rev. Mr. Dow as Pastor in York, "Second Prayer by Rev. Mr. Litchfield of Kittery."

Mrs. Julia (Fernald) Morrell,† Hyde Park, Mass., wrote in December, 1899:

Rev. Joseph Litchfield graduated from Brown University, Providence, R. I.; he became acquainted with his wife and was married there, I presume, for she lived at home for some time after their marriage. He was ordained at Kittery, Spruce Creek, 1782; he was a good preacher; sermons short and interesting; he was greatly beloved by all his parishioners and the whole town; very discreet and peaceable in the neighborhood; of course he had the respect of everyone; my father and family attended his church till he resigned six months previous to his death... Parson Litchfield in his early days built many fishing schooners (as his salary was not very large); he lived near the Creek; he, at one time, possessed considerable property but during the war of 1812, the vessels were taken by privateers, so he lost most all he had... My mother and Mrs. Litchfield were both born in Providence, R. I.; my mother went to Kittery to visit her sister, met my father and married him there.

Many are the anecdotes which might be given concerning Rev. Joseph⁵ Litchfield. He was very witty at times, and enjoyed a joke and pleasant companionship. Once, it is related, his wife complained of his returning late from a journey across the river. He retorted: "Dam the ferryman, he wouldn't take me across." The name of the boatman came in very apropos to suit the pastor's feelings. It is interesting to note that one of Rev. Joseph's descendants married into the Dam family. He was asked, one day, what luck he was having in fishing. Some visitors had just left his home, and so he replied: "Oh, I have caught enough eels to fill two Barrells, with skins that hold four bushels of corn." Eel-skins, in those days, were used as rope or twine is now. His powers of observation were almost unexcelled, and, at times, his descriptions were startling, to say the least. Once he said, "I have seen mosquitoes that would climb on the trees and bark, and many of them would weigh a pound." Other witty statements might be given, but their local coloring would not render them readily understood by the general reader.

^{*}See a magazine, called "Old Eliot" (Me.), May, 1899, vol. iv: pp. 78, 79. † Mrs. Morrell (now dead) was the daughter of William Wentworth and Waite (Salisbury) Fernald, and was born Feb. 9, 1808, thus being able to remember, personally, much about Rev. Joseph⁵ Litchfield, her uncle-in-law. Waite Salisbury and Hannah Salisbury were sisters. In her letters to the compiler, she showed a remarkable memory, and was able to throw light upon many vexing questions concerning the family of Hannah Salisbury. Her father's middle name of Wentworth links her with the Wentworth family, of which there is a very large printed genealogy, q. v. Mrs. Morrell's late residence was at 146 Fairmount Ave., Hyde Park, Mass.

Major Mark Dennett, one of Kittery's most distinguished citizens, was born four years after Mr. Litchfield settled at Spruce Creek, and lived to be upwards of a century old. He was a pupil and intimate friend of the "Fisher-Parson," and attended his church many years. Later, Mr. Dennett became a Free Will Baptist. Among the papers left by Mr. Dennett, who was a historian and genealogist of much local renown, the name of Mr. Litchfield is found several times, but he failed to preserve in written form much of personal and local interest. Mr. Dennett's recollections of the men and events of the days of his youth and young manhood have, in large part, been handed down by word of mouth. His grandchildren* have related to the compiler much that is here printed.

Emphasis is to be laid upon the integrity, liberality and generosity of Rev. Joseph's life, and the great esteem and love which bound him and his flock together. He was a believer in temperance. When offered a glass of wine or rum, he would cover the contents with his hand in order to conceal how little he drank, for moderation in drinking was one of his virtues. In the pulpit he showed a freedom of thought and feeling which was ahead of his time. He would pray fervently and earnestly for the "four quarters of the globe," and longed for Christian forbearance and tolerance of creed and sect.

^{*} Miss Ellen M. Dennett, York Village, Me., and Alexander Dennett, Kittery Village, Me., are two of these grandchildren. The latter has his grandfather's papers.

TESTIMONIALS.

THE following are only a few of the many similar testimonials of appreciation and commendation received by the compiler, regarding "The Litchfield Family in America."

Boston Evening Transcript, Aug. 24, 1903:— "When Part One, No. 1, was issued, we called attention to it as an example of what a genealogy should be. Mr. Litchfield seems to understand that the first requisite of a genealogist is to express himself clearly and concisely, and this he has succeeded in doing as well in No. 2 of Part One as he did in his first pamphlet. . . The text is supplemented by excellent footnotes which throw light on many disputed points which came up in Mr. Litchfield's researches. . . The pamphlet is in so many respects superior to the average genealogical book that we are glad to call the attention of readers of this [genealogical] department to it."

Wallace Faxon, Museum of Comparative Zoölogy, Cambridge, Mass.:—"I need not tell you how highly I esteem your genealogical work. The fulness with which you cite the original records, contemporary documents, such as wills, inventories, etc., makes your history one of the best family memorials that I have ever seen."

Miss Ella Bates, North Scituate, Mass.:—"There is not a page in No. 2 of the Litchfield Genealogy that does not contain some interesting information for others than Litchfields and the whole thing shows how systematic your research has become. The footnotes are invaluable and the views well selected ..."

Miss Janet Cowing, Seneca Falls, N. Y.: — "You have been truly successful in your work and I hope that it will continue."

Mrs. Eudora (Litchfield) O'Bryan, Crystal, Colo.: — "I am delighted with the work, and fully appreciate the time and care you must be obliged to give it. I shall wish every part."

Charles Ames Litchfield, Lewiston, Me.: — "I think that you have improved the appearance of the second number over that of the first, and I am sure that when completed it will be a work of which we will all feel proud."

George Allen Litchfield, Boston Traveler, Boston, Mass,: —"I am glad that there is a Litchfield capable and interested enough in the family history to do the work you are doing."

William Prescott Greenlaw, Librarian N. E, Hist, Gen. Society, Boston: — "You are producing a very satisfactory genealogy. You appear to have considered fully each detail of the process of good book-making"

The price of this Number is $1.00 (postage prepaid).

The next Number of Part One will include Families of the Fifth Generation of Lawrence Litchfield's descendants, in the order of their numerical arrangement. It will contain 48-80 pages of size and typography uniform with this Number, and will be published in 1904, if the subscription list justifies the cost of publication. It will be illustrated.

Price of No. 4 will be 75 cents to those who have subscribed to Nos. 1, 2 and 3. Subscription at this rate will be received until June 1, 1904. After publication the price of No. 4 will be $1.00. See enclosed subscription circular.

The Numbers which will include the Prefatory matter, such as the introduction, the origin of the name, English research work, etc., and the Supplementary matter, such as the appendixes and the indexes, will be published last. The number containing the Indexes to the whole Genealogy, will be presented free to all who subscribe for every Number.
